

ALTRINCHAM.

BOWDON, DUNHAM MASSEY, HALE, HALE BARNS, PEEL CAUSEWAY, RINGWAY.

Altrincham is a market town and chapelry in the parish of Bowdon and hundred of Bucklow, situated on the line of the South Junction Railway. The Duke of Bridgewater's Canal skirts the township at Broadheath, where there are extensive warehouses and coal wharfs. It is 8 miles S.S.W. from Manchester, 7 north from Knutsford, 30 N.E. from Chester,  $11\frac{3}{4}$  from Warrington, 25 from Liverpool,  $31\frac{1}{4}$  from Bolton, and  $193\frac{1}{4}$  from London. The township comprises 657 acres, and contained, in 1851, a population of 4488, in 1861 6,628, and in 1871 8,478—3,958 males and 4,520 females—thus showing an increase in twenty years of 3,990. When the census of 1871 was taken, we find the township of Altrincham contained 1,871 separate families, 1,686 inhabited houses, 90 uninhabited, and 21 building. The market is held on Tuesday, and the fairs April 29, August 5, and November 22, for cattle, toys, &c. Hamon de Massey, in the time of Edward I. granted many privileges to the inhabitants of the town—amongst others, a guild mercatory, or Society of Free Traffic, with freedom from tolls throughout the barony, &c. A court leet is held by the Earl of Stamford and Warrington, who is lord of the manor: the chief officer is styled mayor, but does not exercise any magisterial functions. The market hall and town hall were erected in 1849 by the Earl of Stamford and Warrington. It is a handsome brick building, with stone facings, and has a clock and bell turret. The assembly room measures 66ft. by 30ft. Petty sessions are held once a month; the commissioners of inland revenue meet at stated periods. Altrincham is included in the seventh circuit of towns, under the County Court Act, for the recovery of debts not exceeding £50. The Altrincham and Bowdon Literary Institution was established in 1847. The present handsome and commodious structure was erected in 1852 at a cost of £774. The library contains upwards of 1,600 volumes, and there is a spacious newsroom supplied with the leading provincial and London papers. Lloyd's hospital and dispensary was erected by public subscription in 1853, at a cost of £600—of which sum Mrs. Lloyd contributed £300, and at her death bequeathed £1,000 for its benefit. Dunham Park is the finest seat in the neighbourhood, but there are many handsome residences that border the town, chiefly occupied by Manchester merchants, the gardens of which display great taste. The labouring class are principally occupied in agriculture; and the many market gardens in the district supply the Manchester markets with a large amount of produce. St. George's church, erected in 1799 by subscription, is a plain brick building: the living is a perpetual curacy in the gift of the vicar of Bowdon of the annual value of £150. St. John's Church, Ashley road, a handsome and commodious stone edifice, with tower and spire, was erected by public subscription in 1866, the site of which was given by the Earl of Stamford and Warrington. The other places of worship, with their ministers, will be found immediately following. A British school was erected near Ashley road in 1860, at a cost of £2,500, obtained by subscription; and there are schools for instructing the humbler classes of children, and several superior private seminaries.

Bowdon is a township and parish, with the chapelries of Altrincham and Carrington. The township of Bowdon comprises an area of 828 acres, the population of which, in 1851, was 1,164; in 1861, 1827; and in 1871, 2,262, thus showing an increase in the last twenty years of 1,098. By the same census return (1871) we find that there were 398 inhabited houses, 21 uninhabited, 6 in course of erection, and 424 separate families. It is in the Altrincham Union, East Frodsham deanery, Chester archdeaconry, and hundred of Bucklow, situated on the river Bollin, and is a station on the Manchester South Junction and Altrincham line of railway, 9 miles from Manchester, and may now be considered a portion of the town of Altrincham. The Earl of Stamford and Warrington is lord of the manor and chief landowner. The soil is principally of a light sandy nature, well adapted to the growth of the potato, which is cultivated very extensively in the district. Within the last few years numerous tasteful villas have been erected in the suburbs of the town, which are chiefly occupied by the merchants and wealthy tradesmen of Manchester. The parish church of St. Mary, seated on a considerable elevation, is in the perpendicular or third pointed period style of architecture. The old church, said to have existed prior to the Conquest, was partially razed in 1858, and the present one, which is considerably larger, erected. The portions of the late edifice which had been preserved have been restored, and the carved oak ceilings of the side aisles of the old building are retained. It consists of a nave, chancel, side aisles, transepts, and tower. In the church are several handsome monuments and tablets, principally to the Langhams, Booths, and Asshetons, members of the Stamford and Warrington family. The living is a vicarage in the gift of the Bishop of Chester. The tithes are commuted at £401 per annum. The fees amount to about £80, with residence, and 51 acres of glebe land. The Venerable William Pollock, D.D., Archdeacon of Chester, is the present vicar. The other places of worship will be found immediately following. A grammar school was founded here in 1600, and the school house was re-built in 1670, and again in 1806. The charities are numerous, several benefactors having left, by will, bread to be given away to the poor every Sunday for ever. Clothing is also distributed occasionally. The recipients are included in the several townships in the parish.

Hale is an agricultural township, in the parish of Bowdon, comprising an area of 3,679 acres, and a population in 1851 of 995; in 1861, 1,160, and in 1871, 1,711 inhabitants—viz., 811 males and 900 females; 359 separate families, 336 inhabited houses, and 17 uninhabited. The Earl of Stamford is lord of the manor. The township adjoins that of Altrincham. The hamlet of Hale Barns is 2 miles from Altrincham, 10 from Manchester, and 7 from Knutsford. Ringway is a hamlet, about 3 miles from Altrincham. Here is a Chapel of Ease, erected in 1720, by Lord Crewe. Lord Egerton is patron of the living, which is a perpetual curacy. Rev. H. A. Hignett, M.A., is the present vicar. Peel Causeway is a station on the Cheshire Midland line of railway, about half a mile south-east from Bowdon.

DAVENHAM is a parish comprising the several townships of Leftwich, Davenham, Bostock, Moulton, Wharton, Newhall, Rudheath, Stanthorn, Shurlach, Shipbrook and Whatcroft, in the Northwich hundred, union, and county court district. The population of the parish in 1861 was 6,855, and 1871 7,612; acreage 9,449. The village of Davenham is pleasantly situated about two miles south from Northwich on the high road to Middlewich, and four miles north from the latter town. The Church of St. Wilfrid, a beautiful edifice surmounted by a lofty spire, is now undergoing considerable alteration, including new chancel and transepts, removal of the old galleries, and a thorough restoration of the interior, with a new organ, the whole estimated to cost upwards of £7000, defrayed by the munificent rector, the Rev. Thomas France Hayhurst. The Independents and Wesleyans have each chapels in the township, and there is a National School for children of both sexes. A neat memorial (stone fountain), has been erected a short distance from the village to the memory of the late J. Hosken Harper, Esq., J.P., of Davenham hall. The nearest railway station is at Hartford, on the London and North Western line,  $1\frac{1}{2}$  miles distant, and the omnibus running between Northwich and Winsford passes through the village. The population of the township in 1861 was 518, and in 1871 554, inhabited houses 124, uninhabited 4, and in course of erection 3. Area 479 acres. Major Harper, Davenham hall, is lord of the manor.

St. Wilfrid's, parish church, Rev. Thomas France Hayhurst, M.A., rector; Rev. T. W. France Hayhurst and Rev. Francis R. W. Malpas, curates.

Congregational Chapel, Rev. Henry S. Payne, minister.

Wesleyan Methodist Chapel.

National Schools: Samuel Cooke, master; Marion Sturgeon and Sarah Haspell, mistresses.

Post Office: Peter Such, postmaster; Letters from all parts arrive (from Northwich), at 7.30 a.m., and are despatched thereto at 6.30 p.m. Money order and savings bank.

FRODSHAM,

Overton, Bradley, Netherton, Woodhouses, Five Crosses

FRODSHAM (formerly a market town) is pleasantly situated on the banks of the river Weaver, and on the high road from Warrington to Chester, being about 10 miles from each town, six from Runcorn, and 39 from Manchester, and on account of its far-famed hills, and the picturesque scenery has become a favourite resort of pleasure seekers. It is a first class station on the Cheshire junction line of railway. A loop line is now in course of construction, by the London and North Western Company, to join their line over Runcorn Gap, which will bring it in direct communication with Liverpool and the populous districts of Widnes, St. Helens, &c. The parish of Frodsham includes the townships of Helsby, Manley, Newton-by-Frodsham, and the chapelries of Alvanley and Norley. Fairs are held on the last Tuesday in April, and the last Thursday in October. The population of the parish in 1861 was 5,890, of which number 1,869 were returned for the township. The river Weaver forms the north-eastern boundary, over which is a neat stone bridge, separating the township from that of Sutton. The bridge consists of three arches, each having a span of 70 feet. The Birkenhead, Lancashire and Cheshire junction railway crosses the river on a splendid viaduct. The main street is nearly a mile long. The Town Hall is in the main street, which is also used for Savings Bank, Volunteers' drill and armoury rooms and overseers' office. There are several excellent hotels in the town, the principal being the Queen's Head, the Commercial, and the Bear's Paw, where every accommodation will be found either for pleasure seekers or commercials. There are also several handsome drapery and large well stocked ironmongery, grocery, &c., establishments, which cannot be excelled in towns of much greater pretensions. The parish church (dedicated to St. Lawrence) stands on a lofty eminence about half a mile from the town, adjoining the village of Overton. It is an ancient edifice in the Norman style of architecture, and is built of red sand-stone. The tower contains an excellent peal of six bells. The living is a vicarage in the gift of Christ Church, Oxford; the Rev. W. C. Cotton is the present vicar. There are chapels each for Wesleyans, Primitive Methodists, and a Methodist Free Church. The Free Grammar School situated at Overton, was rebuilt in 1824. The National Schools are in Church lane, and there are several boarding and day schools in the town; and at Overton, the Overton Collegiate School, South Bank House, conducted by Mr. G. H. Dauby, M.R.C.P., and two ladies' boarding schools. From the summit of Overton hill, which is 400 feet in height, a splendid view of the surrounding country may be obtained. It has recently become a favourite summer resort for schools, pic-nic and other parties, for which every accommodation has been provided by Mr. James Rigby, who has established near the summit of the hill a large refreshment room, gymnasium, croquet lawn, bowling green, archery butts, and a field for rural sports, where a day's recreation and enjoyment of the beautiful scenery, exhilarating air, shaded and open walks, cannot fail to satisfy all who pay a visit to this charming locality.

Post Office, Main street, Ann Lewis, post-mistress; Letters from all parts arrive (from Preston Brook), at 6.10 a.m. and 3 p.m., and are despatched thereto at 11 a.m. and at 8 p.m. Money Order, Savings Bank and telegraph office. # KNUTSFORD.

K NUTSFORD is a parish comprising the townships of Bexton, Knutsford Inferior, Knutsford Superior, Ollerton, and Toft, in Altrincham Union and Bucklow Hundred, situated about 15 miles S. W. from Manchester 2½ N.E. from Chester, six N.E. from Northwich, 29 S.E. from Liverpool, and 172 from London, containing 4,832 acres. Knutsford Inferior (or Nether Knutsford), in the above parish is an ancient market town. The charter for holding a market on a Saturday, and three days fairs on the festivals of St. Peter and St. Paul, being procured about the year 1292. Saturday is still the market day, and the fairs are now held on the 23rd April, Whit-Tuesday, and the 8th November. The town which consists of two principal streets, and a few small ones branching off has within the last few years greatly improved, and many handsome residences have been erected on the outskirts, and are occupied chiefly by the merchants, &c., from Manchester and districts. The Cheshire Midland Line of Railway, opened a few years ago by the Manchester, Sheffield and Lincolnshire, Great Northern and Midland Joint Co., has a station here which affords great facilities for railway communication with all parts of the kingdom, and will no doubt tend still further to increase and improve the town. Race meetings are held here annually, and are well attended. The County Gaol situated near the railway, is a very extensive building, and contains the Sessions Hall, in which sessions are held on the first Tuesday in each month. A new Town Hall is now in course of erection on a commanding site, nearly opposite the goal which promises to be when completed a very handsome building, and will add to the beauty of the town. The workhouse for the Altrincham Union is situated here. The town is well supplied with water, and the streets and shops are well lighted with gas. The parish church, dedicated to St. John the Baptist, is an extensive brick edifice, consisting of nave and side aisles, with tower which contains a peal of six bells, there are also places of worship for Independants, Primitive and Wesleyan Methodists, Roman Catholics and Unitarians, several of which are handsome structures of recent erection. Here are a number of first-class boarding and day schools, also a grammar school and the Parochial Schools. Parr's Banking Co., and the Union Bank of Manchester have each a branch here, there is also a Savings Bank and the Post Office Savings Bank. Brick and tile making is extensively carried on here by Mr. Jabez Thompson, of Northwich, and tanning by Mr. John Long. The establishments of the drapers, grocers, &c., are extensive and well stocked, and several of the hotels are large and commodious. The township contains 751 acres of land. The population in 1871 was, Knutsford Inferior, 3,107; in the house of correction (prisoners 250, officers and their families 39), 289; in the workhouse (paupers 194, officers and their families 7), 201—making a total of 3,597. Knutsford Superior is a township adjoining that of Knutsford Inferior, also in the same parish, Union and Hundred. The church situated at the hamlet of Crosstown, is a handsome brick edifice, consisting of nave, side aisles and chancel, with a tower and spire which contains a peal of four bells. The Rev. L. W. Riley, M.A., is the present vicar, here is a National School, the extensive nurseries of Mr. W. G. Caldwell, are in this township, population in 1871, 206, acreage 942.

Post Office, Princess street, John Hulme, postmaster. Letters from all parts are delivered at 7 a.m. and 3.15 p.m., and are despatched at 8.35 and 9.45 p.m. Money Order Office and Savings Bank open from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Telegraph Office, open from 7 a.m. to 9 p.m., Sundays 8 to 10 am.

 and village situated on the high road between Knutsford and Northwich, 5 miles south west from the former, and  $2\frac{1}{2}$  N.E. from the latter. The township is in the parish of Great Budworth, Northwich union, hundred and county court district, and diocese of Chester. The church, erected in 1844, is a neat brick edifice, dedicated to St. John; the living is a perpetual curacy of the value of £120 per annum. The Rev. William Charles de Lancy is the vicar; the living is under the patronage of the vicar of Witton. The Wesleyans have a place of worship in the township, and there are National schools for children of both sexes.
 The North Staffordshire Railway, and Canal Company's Canal passes through the township, also the Cheshire Lines Committee's Railway from Northwich to Manchester; the station is immediately adjoining the village. The district is principally agricultural, and there is a tannery and corn and bone mills in the village. Population 1861, 467; 1871, 568; acreage, 1706.

HULSE is a small township adjoining.

LYMM is a parish in the Altrincham Union and Bucklow hundred, situated on the Manchester, Warrington, Widnes, and Liverpool line of the London and North-Western Railway, about six miles W. from Altrincham, five S.E. from Warrington, seven N.W. from Knutsford, and 13½ S.W. from Manchester. Here are two railway stations—Lymm, and Heatley for Warburton. The Bridgewater canal passes through the township. The church is dedicated to the Virgin Mary, and is a handsome structure of stone, in the early decorated style of architecture, consisting of nave, side aisles, chancel, transept, and tower. The living is a rectory; the Rev. Thomas Redhead Branfoot, M.A., is the present rector. Here is a grammar school, endowed in 1608, by Sir George Warburton and William Domville. There are also parochial schools. The affairs of the parish are managed by a local board. The population in 1861 was 3,769, and in 1871, 4,541, and contains 4,849 acres of land.

Heatley, Statham, and Oughtrington are hamlets in this parish. At the latter a new church is in course of erection.

MIDDLEWICH,

Newton, Kinderton-cum-Hulme, Sproston.

MIDDLEWICH is a parish comprising the townships of Byley-cum-Yatehouse, Clive, Croxton, Kinderton-cum-Hulme, Moresharrow-cum-Parme, Newton, Ockleston, Ravenscroft, Sproston, Stublach, Sutton, Weaver, Wimboldsby and Minshull Vernon. Middlewich is a very ancient market town, 6 miles south-east from Northwich, 21 east from Chester, 167 from London and 3 from Winsford. In the immediate neighbourhood are several salt springs, with salt works adjacent. The name of the town is derived from its central situation in respect to the "Wiches," or salt-producing towns. The Parish church, dedicated to St. Michael & All-Angels, is an ancient Gothic structure, with tower containing a peal of six bells. The living, a vicarage of the annual value of £160, is held by the Rev. Henry Goodwin, M.A. There are places of worship for Independents, Methodists, Society of Friends, and Roman Catholics. The National schools in Lewin street are well attended by children of both sexes. The Town hall and Market house is a neat building near the parish church, the lower part is devoted to market purposes, and the upper portion is used as a Library, reading-room, and also for the holding of Petty sessions. The market is held on Tuesday, and there are fairs on the last Tuesday in February, April and October. Middlewich is a station on the London & North Western Railway branch from Northwich, to Sandbach. The North Staffordshire Railway Company's Canal passes through the town. The Sanitary and other local affairs of the town and suburbs are regulated by a Local Board, the population of the district under their superintendence, including Middlewich and parts of Kinderton and Newton, was, in 1871, 3,150; in Middlewich township alone, the population in 1861 was 1,203, and in 1871, 1,283.

Newton is a township forming a suburb of, and in the parish of Middlewich to the south. There are very extensive grounds laid out as nurseries here, by Mr. Boosey of Middlewich; also the Middlewich cemetery, the two beautiful chapels in this pleasant burial place, are admirable specimens of Gothic architecture.

KINDERTON-CUM-HULME is a township in the parish of Middlewich, and forms a suburb on the eastern side of the town. The Railway station and Gas works are in this township. Population in 1861, 477; in 1871, 485. Acreage, 1637. Letters through Middlewich.

NORTHWICH,

Castle Northwich, Leftwich, Anderton, Marston, Wincham, Witton, Winnington.

NORTHWICH, an excellent market town and one of the principal seats of the Salt trade, is in the parish of Great Budworth. Hundred, union, and county court district to which it gives its name, is pleasantly situated on the banks of the rivers Weaver and Dane;  $34\frac{1}{2}$  miles from Liverpool (by rail), 18 from Manchester (22 by road), 18 north-east from Chester, 174 from London,  $2\frac{1}{2}$  from Hartford station, on the Liverpool and Birmingham section of the London and North Western Railway, 3 from Weaverham, 6 from Middlewich, and the same distance from Winsford. The town and district has been noted for its salt springs, from a very early date. Hellah, or Hellah-Du, or the Black Salt town, being the name given to it by the ancient Britons, and it is tolerably certain that the Romans, prior to the Christian era, had discovered, what has since become, an enormous source of wealth and prosperity to this locality. The principal works for the production of white salt, and the rock salt mines, are in the town, and townships, within a radius of two miles. Many of the salt works are conveniently situated on the banks of the river Weaver, and the North Staffordshire Railway Company's Canal; vessels are thus enabled to receive their cargoes at the various works for conveyance to Liverpool, Runcorn, and other parts of the kingdom. A branch line of railway from near the Northwich station to the mines and works at Witton, Marston and Wincham, is also a valuable means of transit for the enormous tonnage of the various kinds of salt annually produced. For the information of the stranger, it may be stated that the mines produce rock salt, which is brought to the surface in lumps, and in some cases, afterwards pulverized by machinery. The white (or common salt) is produced by evaporation from brine pumped from pits, at depths of about 30 yards from the bed of the river. The brine, or salt water, is supposed to be formed by fresh water flowing into extensive beds of rock salt. The process employed in the salt manufacture is very simple, the brine being conveyed from the pits in pipes to a reservoir, thence to the shallow iron salt pans, which are vessels of from 40 to 100 feet in length and 10 to 30 feet wide and  $1\frac{1}{2}$  feet in depth, thus exposing a wide surface for evaporating purposes. The heat is supplied by furnaces under each pan. In manufacturing stoved or lump salt, the pan is required to be brought to boiling heat, 225 degrees Fahrenheit, which causes the evaporation to proceed quickly, the murate of soda thus produced falling to the bottom of the pan immediately on formation; the furnaces are then slackened, the salt drawn to the side of the pan and placed in oblong wooden tubs to drain, and afterwards to the stove or drying house. The large-grained salt used for fish-curing purposes, is produced in a much slower manner at 100 degrees, and the coarse-grained salt at 130, Fahrenheit. Rock salt was first discovered in the adjoining township of Marbury, about 1670. In addition to the enormous production for home consumption, the amount of salt exported from the ports of Liverpool and Runcorn alone, during the month of Sept., 1871, was 99,737 tons, making a total exported from 1st January to 30th Sept., from those two ports of 728,693 tons. It is also largely exported from Hull and Grimsby. Considerable improvements in the navigation of the river Weaver have been made, and are still being carried on by the Trustees at various points, and steam has of late years been used in towing and propelling the numerous vessels employed in the trade of the district, on the river, which has effected a considerable saving of time in the voyage to Liverpool, &c. There are several yards here for the building and repairing of vessels, an iron foundry, two leather manufactories, and brick and tile making is extensively carried on in the neighbourhood. The general trade of the town is in a flourishing state; the market held on Friday being exceedingly well attended by the surrounding agriculturalists and the corn, &c., merchants of Liverpool, Manchester and other places. The retail establishments are large and well stocked, and the sanitary and other affairs of the town, are superintended by the Local Boards of Northwich and Witton, in which latter township a large portion of the town stands. Railway communication is afforded by the Cheshire Lines Committee and the London and North-Western railway, the station is in Witton, about  $\frac{1}{2}$  a mile from the centre of the town; Omnibuses for Winsford meet several trains daily. Northwich is the head quarters of the 22nd Cheshire Volunteers. The drill shed in Leftwich is admirably adapted for the purpose, and is also used for public meetings, horticultural exhibitions, &c. The actual township of Northwich is small, containing, by the last census, on the 2nd April, 1871, 231 houses, of which 15 were uninhabited, and a population of 1,214, shewing an increase of 27 during the previous ten years. To arrive at the population of the town of Northwich it will be necessary to include those of the inhabitants residing in the adjoining townships of Witton, Leftwich, Winnington, and Castle Northwich, which form suburbs or parts of the town itself, which, by the census of 1871, numbered 9,248—as follows; in the ecclesiastical district of Witton, 6,860; of St. Pauls, Dane Bridge (including part of Northwich), 2,388.

Witton, or Witton-cum-Twambrooks, is a populous township in the Union and county court district, and an important suburb of Northwich, on the eastern side. In this township are the Northwich post office, railway station, Provident Dispensary, several salt works, and rock salt mines, brick and draining pipe works, two breweries, and the waterworks. Witton church, dedicated to St. Helen, is a noble specimen of ecclesiastical architecture, in the early English style. The church contains nave, chancel, north and south aisles, with a magnificent oak roof, with ornamental panels, and tower containing a peal of six bells and a clock. The living, a perpetual curacy, is of the annual value of £168, with residence. The Rev. George Gibbons, M.A., is the vicar; Rev. G. W. Clapham, curate. There are National schools for children of both sexes. The members of the Methodist Free Church and the Primitive Methodists have each chapels here, and the Wesleyans have a school in Leicester street, which was established in 1787. The Roman Catholics have a neat, well-built chapel, in Witton street, to which schools have lately been added. The Witton grammar school, near the church, was founded and endowed by Sir John Dean, in 1588. The school estates now produce upwards of £400 per annum. Population, in 1861, 3,677; in 1871, 4,229. Acreage, 588.

Leftwich is a township, in the parish of Davenham, Union and county court district of Northwich, of which town it forms a suburb, on the south side. The church of St. Paul, Danebridge, of which the Rev. D. Waller, M.A., is vicar, is a beautiful edifice, in the early English style. The living is a perpetual curacy, of the annual value of £160, with residence in the township of Castle Northwich. The Wesleyans have a large chapel here, with residence for the circuit minister. There are National and infant schools for children of both sexes. The Cheshire Lines Railway to Helsby and Chester is carried over the township by a viaduct of numerous lofty arches. In the township are extensive manufactories of leather, of a light description; also an iron foundry, salt works, saw mills, and the Northwich Union Workhouse. Population, 1869, 2,625; in 1871, 2,749. Acreage, 972.

Castle Northwich, a suburb of Northwich, is a township in the parish of Great Budworth. The name of this township is derived from a castle which stood here, of which nothing now remains. The offices of the trustees of the Weaver Navigation are in Navigation road; also a school, established and supported by them, for children of both sexes. The same corporation also erected, in 1852, a church, dedicated to St. Paul, which stands on an eminence overlooking the Weaver valley. The Independents and Primitive Methodists have places of worship here. The township is in the Union and county court district of Northwich, and contained, by the census of 1861, 1,395, and, in 1871, 1,648 inhabitants. The area is 100 acres.

WINNINGTON township, a portion of which forms a suburb of Northwich, is in Great Budworth parish. Union and county court district of Northwich. There are several extensive salt works, on the banks of the Weaver, about a mile from the town bridge. Winnington Hall, beautifully situated in an extensive and well wooded park, is now occupied as a ladies' boarding school. Lord Stanley of Alderley is lord of the manor. Population, in 1861, 458; 1871, 529. Acreage 597.

ANDERTON, two miles from Northwich, is a township in the parish of Great Budworth, Union and county court district of Northwich, containing extensive salt works, on the banks of the river Weaver. The Anderton Carrying Company, and Traders North Staffordshire Carrying Company, have extensive warehouses here, for the transshipment of goods and minerals from the vessels in the river, to "narrow boats," on the North Staffordshire Railway Company's Canal, which passes through the township. The level of the river being considerably lower than the canal, the transshipment is effected by wagons drawn up an inclined plane by steam power. Population of the township in 1861, 332; 1871, 281; showing a decrease of 51 in the 10 years. Acreage, 481.

MARSTON, two miles from Northwich, is also a township, in the parish of Great Budworth, Union and county court district of Northwich. Here are very extensive rock salt mines and salt works. The Great Marston mine was sunk 90 years ago, at a depth of 60 yards, since which the present bed was discovered at a depth of 112 yards. The Royal Society of England, and the late Emperor Nicholas of Russia, paid a visit to this mine in 1844. The mine being illuminated with dazzling effect, and the illustrious guest entertained at a grand banquet served in the mine. There is a branch line of railway, from near the Northwich station, to the various mines and works, and the North Staffordshire Canal passes through the township, completing a system of transit for the thousands of tons of all kinds of salt annually produced here. There is also a forge for the manufacture of bar iron, plates, &c. The population in 1861 was 745, and in 1871, 763. Acreage, 1,045.

WINCHAM is a township, four miles from Northwich, in the parish of Great Budworth, Northwich Union and county court district. Here also are extensive salt works, and rock salt mine; the North Staffordshire Canal and a branch line of railway affording transit for their productions. There is a boiler and salt pan works in the township; and a National school is in course of erection. Population—1861, 642; 1871, 911. Acreage, 941.

Post Office, Witton street, Northwich; Mrs. Mary Banks, postmistress. Telegraph, Money Order, and Savings' Bank office. Letters are delivered at 7-30 a.m., and 3-0 p.m. Despatches (box closes), 11 a.m., and 9 p.m. Messengers on foot are despatched at 6-30 a.m., to the sub-offices of Arley, Weaverham, Davenham, Great Budworth, Higher Whitley and Whitegate, returning in time for the evening despatch.

Letters are collected in time for the morning and evening dispatches, from the pillar letter boxes, placed in High street, near the town bridge, Northwich; in Leftwich, near the railway arch, and receiving office at Castle Northwich. The sub-office, Marston, and letter box at the Canal bridge, Wincham, are cleared in the evening.

Letters for Wincham are sent through Knutsford, unless the parties have a private box at the Northwich post office.

RUNCORN.

RUNCORN is a parish, township, port and market town, and the principal of the Union to which it gives its name, in the Hundred of Bucklow and diocese of Chester. The parish comprises 19 townships, and 18,906 acres. The population within the registration sub-districts in 1861, was 13,590; and in 1871, 16,446. The Union comprises 37 townships, and contained in 1861, 26,792 inhabitants; and in 1871, 30,656. The town and port is situated about 18 miles south-east from Liverpool, 15 north-east from Chester, nine south-west from Warrington, and about six North from Frodsham, on the southern shore of the river Mersey, at the point where the Bridgewater Canal, and the Old Quay Navigation unite with that river. The spacious Bridgewater docks accommodate a large number of vessels, and the entrance from the Mersey is through a gateway 50 feet in width, which is also the width of the opening into the Alfred Dock. There is every adaptation for a large amount of traffic; but the more modern appliances are found at the newer portion of the works, where steam and hydraulic cranes are in regular use, and by their rapid and easy movements greatly facilitate the despatch of ships, and the smaller craft which ply on the canals into the interior of the country. The various British products which occupy the quays and warehouses are used in numerous branches of manufacture, and a considerable extent of foreign merchandise is imported and exported. The docks are linked with the railway systems of the kingdom, by a branch line belonging to the London and North Western Railway Co. Full particulars of the magnificent bridge which spans the river Mersey here, will be found on page 183. The Bridge-water Trustees, who are proprietors of the premises, maintain a fleet of powerful steamers for towing vessels between Runcorn and Liverpool, those having cargoes being towed free of charge, and no dock charges are made on vessels with cargoes using the basins and docks for the purpose of trade, unless they remain longer than twenty one days. The Port is especially eligible for all purposes of traffic in connection with the manufacturing districts of Lancashire, Yorkshire, Derbyshire, the Staffordshire Potteries, and iron districts of Wolverhampton, Birmingham, &c., and the inland towns of the Northern and Midland Counties of England. The Lancashire coal fields and the Cheshire salt works, together with the usual exports of manufacturing towns, afford ready means for ships procuring outward cargoes. Direct and economical communication exists by railway and water with all these districts, by which goods are speedily forwarded to any part of the Kingdom. The Bridgewater Canal is connected with the Docks and the river Mersey by means of two lines of locks, one of which was constructed by the celebrated engineer, James Brindley, who also constructed the canal for the late Duke of Bridgewater, and besides these, a new cut, designated the "Runcorn and Weston Canal," was opened in 1860, which constitutes a junction of this navigation with the docks and the river Weaver navigation in the township of Weston. The Old Quay Navigation from Manchester joins the river Mersey at this place, and has commodious docks, where extensive business is carried on, and which further tends to make Runcorn an important position as connecting the inland mercantile interests with the sea. A steamer taking passengers leaves Runcorn for Liverpool daily, and a passenger boat for Warrington and Manchester, on Monday, Wednesday and Friday. The number of vessels and tonnage, inwards and outwards, according to the Customs returns for the year ending 31st March, 1871, was as follows:—Inwards, foreign, 373 vessels, 40,210 tons; inwards, foreign, in ballast, 4 vessels, 581 tons; outwards, foreign, with cargoes, 331 vessels, 37,006 tons; outwards, foreign, in ballast, 1 vessel, 124 tons; inwards, coasting, 803 vessels, 49,735 tons; outwards, coasting, 1,945 vessels, 135,461 tons. The Port has a bonded warehouse at the docks for the storage of goods until the duty is paid at the Custom House, and for the convenience of vessels sailing to foreign ports being supplied with necessary stores. In the town are several large ship-building yards, roperies, ship chandlery establishments, soaperies, tanneries, chemical works, &c. The Runcorn and Weston stone quarries are much noted, the stone being used in most erections of importance in Cheshire, Lancashire, and adjoining counties. The Town Hall, in Bridge street, is a neat building, and contains the police station and Bridewell, the County Court, Petty Sessions Court, and the offices of the Runcorn Improvement Commissioners. The Public Hall in Public Hall street, is a handsome stone building erected by a Limited Company, and is let for concerts, theatrical performances, &c., and contains the office of the Water Works Co. The parish church, dedicated to All Saints, is a handsome edifice in the early English style of architecture, erected in 1849 on the site of the old one. It consists of nave, chancel, north and south aisles, and transept, with tower and spire, and a peal of eight bells. The Rev. Canon Barclay, M.A., is the present vicar. Holy Trinity Church, in Trinity street, is a handsome Gothic structure with tower and one bell. It was erected by subscription and a grant from the Church Building Society in 1838. The living is in the gift of John and Thomas Johnson, Esqrs. The Rev. T. Raffles Hoskin, M.A., is the present vicar. St. Peter's Mission Church, The Docks, and the Mariners' Church, Irwell lane, are small neat edifices, and are chiefly attended by mariners. The Rev. J. W. Davis officiates at the former, and ministers from Holy Trinity at the latter. The Wesleyans have several handsome chapels here, two of them having cost about £8,000 each, and chiefly at the expense of T. Hazlehurst, Esq. A list of the other places of worship will be found in the directory for Runcorn. Most of the places of worship have schools in connection, and there are several first class boarding and day schools in the town. The market is held on Friday, and fairs on the last Friday in April, and the last Friday in October.

Parr's Banking Company Limited, have a branch office here, and there is a Savings Bank, and Post Office Savings Bank in the town.

WINSFORD is a market town, noted for its extensive salt works; situated on the banks of the river Weaver, 6 miles south from Northwich, and 3 miles north-west from Middlewich. The town of Winsford is situated in portions of the townships of Wharton and Over, on both banks of the river Weaver, which is here crossed by a bridge, previous to the construction of which, there was a ford or ferry, originally, it is said, kept by a person named "Winn"; hence the name of Winsford, which it retains to the present day. The salt works extend upwards of a mile, on both banks of the river, and are very extensive. The brine is found at depths of from 12 to 60 yards, and is considered of excellent quality, producing 52 ounces of salt from the gallon. There are also rock-salt mines, the products of which are exported to the continent in large quantities. The River Weaver supplies a direct water communication with Liverpool and Runcorn. Many of the vessels employed are propelled by steam, and accomplish the journey to Liverpool in about 8½ hours. The London and North-Western railway passes through the township of Wharton, and is connected with several of the works by branch lines; thus completing a system of transit for the enormous amount of salt annually produced for home consumption and export to various parts of the world. There are public and private yards, for the building and repairing the numerous vessels employed in the trade of the district; also an ironfoundry, corn mill, market hall, several good inns, a manufactory of artificial manure, and numerous respectable retail establishments. Sail and tent making is also carried on here to some extent. A branch of the Cheshire Lines Committee's Railway connects the town with their main line from Northwich to Helsby, and there is a station on the London and North-Western line, about a mile from Winsford bridge. The market is held on Saturday.

OVER is a parish, township, and small market town. The parish comprises part of the township of Over, the townships of Oulton, and Whittenhall; containing an area of 7469 acres. Population by the census in 1861, 3454; and in 1871, 5020 inhabitants. The township of Over is partly in the parish of its name, and partly in that of Whitegate, union and county court district of Northwich, first division of the hundred of Eddisbury, situated on the west bank of the river Weaver,  $4\frac{1}{2}$  miles west from Middlewich, 7 south from Northwich, and 15 east from Chester. The township contained a population of 3774 inhabitants, by the census of 1861; and in 1871, 5,020; of which, 2,462 were females, and 2,558 males; showing an increase of 1,246 in the ten years. As far back as the year 1280, King Edward granted a charter for holding the market here, it having been created a borough from a very early date, and still retains the privilege of electing a mayor, who, during his year of office, exercises the full powers of justice of the peace, and sits as magistrate, at the quarter sessions. The borough includes the townships of Over, Marton, and Swanlow. The ancient parish church, dedicated to St. Chad, is situated about a mile from the town. The living, a vicarage, value £150 per annum, is in the patronage of the Bishop of Chester. The present vicar is the Rev. Nathan Jackson, M.A. A separate ecclesiastical district having been formed of a portion of Over, a church was erected in 1863, as a memorial to Sarah, the wife of Lord Delamere, who gave the site and erected the church principally at his own cost. Christ Church was erected near the river, in 1844, by the trustees of the Weaver navigation, for the benefit of the watermen. It is a beautiful stone edifice, in the early English style, with tower and spire. The living is a perpetual curacy, of the annual value of £150. The Rev. John Birkett is vicar. There are National schools for children of both sexes. The Congregational Chapel, is a beautiful building, with Sunday school attached. The various bodies of Methodists have also places of worship here. A large cotton-spinning mill, erected in the township in 1870, employs upwards of 500 hands, and has added much to the prosperity of the neighbourhood. A spacious Assembly Room, for public meetings, concerts, &c., has been built by Mr. Barues, in Over lane. Cattle fairs are held on the 15th May and 25th September. Lord Delamere is lord of the manor.

WHARTON is a township in Davenham parish, in the Northwich union, and county court district; 6 miles south of Northwich, and 3 from Middlewich. The river Weaver ceases to be navigable at this place. The church is a handsome edifice, with tower. The living, a perpetual curacy of the value of £150 per annum, is held by the Rev. Samuel Bage, M.A. The several sects of Methodists have chapels here; and there are national and infant schools, for children of both sexes. Population, 1861, 2,234; 1871, 2,595. Acreage, 1,224. Post Office, Over lane, Winsford; Money Order, Telegraph and Savings Bank, Thomas K. Crosbie, postmaster. Letters arrive at 7 a.m., and at 2 p.m.; dispatched at 11-5 a.m., and 10 p.m.

Post Office, Over; James Court, postmaster. Letters arrive from Winsford at 8-15 a.m., and are dispatched thereto at 6 p.m. Nearest Money Order and Telegraph Office at Winsford.
